

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A starting device for an internal combustion engine predicts whether a starter is required to assist a crank of the engine before igniting fuel in a cylinder in an expansion stroke, and starts the starter 5 before igniting the fuel in a cylinder in an expansion stroke if it is decided that the starter is required.